RAIN POSTPONED THE THIRD GAME

But the New York and Philadelphia Teams Are to Meet To-day.

WILL PLAY NEXT IN NEW YORK

Each Team Has a Game to Its Credit and There is Much Interest.

Hy Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, October II.—Rain today prevented the playing or the third of the series of games for the baseban championship of the world between the leaders in the American and the National League champions. The teams will play here to-morrow and in New York Friday and Baturday. If rain should interfere to-morrow Friday's game will be played in this city.

There were only 6,000 persons present at 3 P, M., when Umpire John Sheridan, of the American League, announced to the spectators that the playing field was very wet and in view of the importance of the series the game would not be started. Matheson and Conkley had been selected by their respective managers to do the pitching.

The National Commission, which has complete control of the world's series, announced to-day that, beginning to-morrow, the remaining games in this city and in New York will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

terday afternoon the football game be-tween Richmond College and William and Mary was fought to a finish against all the odds of bad weather. The mud and slop were six inches deep, and the ceaseless showers deterred both sides except in a few scattered instances, from making any particularly brilliant plays or side was able to score. The game end-ed in Richmond College's territory with the pigskin in the Fossession of William and Mary, and had there been a few more minutes to Blay, the followers of the Orange and White would in all probability have scored at least one touch down. But on the Spiders' thirty-five yard line the mud bespattered heroes of the gridiron were called to time, and the to an end without a score.

The contest was characterized by fum-bles. Covered with greasy slime, it was almost impossible to maintain a firm grasp of the slippery oval. Bouncing and frantic players, and in the main all gains were made for only short distances and by scrambling and sliding, with eel-like contortions, through the disgusting mud.

Particular hardship was worked against Particular hardship was worked against the Orange and White, as none of the team were used to the field, entirely un-like their own, and the majority of them were new players. Taking into considwere new players. Taking into Consideration the condition of the weather, the slop and mud, inches deep in all parts of the field, there could hardly be a fair test made of the relative strength of the rival teams. On the whole, William and Mary showed up better in speed and interference work, while some good tackling was made by the topposing players. But, as stated, from a professional standpoint, comparison was difficult, and will have to be made at some future date, when the conditions of weather and grounds will afford a fairer basis for an impartial test. of the city dead, that a person has made such a bequest, and that the provision of the will might be carried out it was ne-cessary for a form to be followed which never before was used in this city. The rain kept back the crowd which would otherwise have been present, and the grand stand was but scantly filled. The ladies were conspicuous by their absence, there being but one foriorn maiden in the gathering. It might be said in justica to both sides, that they were valuantly upheld by rooters from both colleges. About thirty-five rooters from William and Mary accompanied their team and cheered their representatives to all the striving that in them lay. But it was all to no purpose, except that William and Mary had the spheroid in their possession at the end of the contest, with every prospect of making a touchdown, had the time been extended a few minutes longer.

Opening of Game.

In the first half the Spiders kicked off to the Orange and White. The ball hardiy rose above the ground, and was received by Dovell, who advanced five yards. In the resulting scrimmages the visitors made a little gain. Richmond was penalized fifteen yards for holding, and then on the forty yard line the ball was given to Dovell, who advanced it two yards. Attempts were then made invoyards. Meade then fumbled the slippery leather, and the visitors were forced to kick. Richmond received the ball on the thirty-live yard line, and avanced it five yards. After a series of slides and scrambles the homers went through right tackle and made five. In two downs, and after a pretty tackle by Hankins, the ball was placed on the thirty-five yard line. Tilman then made a plunge for four yards. The homers were then forced to kick. Dade received the ball, and returned it to the gorty yard line. With left tackle over formation the visitors then made another five yards. In a series of plays through the line and around the ends, Dovell, Abbott and Dade then brought the ball within the thirty yard line. Dovel then passed around the end for nine yards, and after swaying to and from William and Mary was forced to kick.
